PRESIDENT ARTHUR is said to have sixty pairs of boots and shoes in use. He must keep one cobbler employed constantly to repair them.

LINCOLN, SECRETARY OF WAR, has become a close, hard student. He shuns social life, and spends his evenings in study, mastering written politics. He pores over history and political economy. Perhaps he actually is laying out to become a statesman.

THE WORLD does certainly make progress. Fourteen hundred "regular" physicians in New York, belonging to the organized societies, have signed the "new code," which recognizes homeopaths as physicians to be consulted, while there are but 600 signatures to the "old code."

THE DEATH of L. E. Harrington at American Fork, the demise being noted in another part of this issue of THE HERALD, gives rest to a good man. Bishop Harrington was one of the best known men in the Territory, and nobody enjoyed a larger degree of respect and confidence among those with whom he was acquainted than he. His whole life seemed an example worthy of imitation, and his death will occasion the grief and sorrow that are aroused when the good go to the great beyond.

LAWYER BLISS, who prosecuted the star route cases, apparently only thinks he would never have another client hence he would make the most out of government. His regular pay was $150, per day and out of that one might be excused for expecting the man to pay his wash bills, and so on, but Bliss made his employer settle for his general expenses in Washington. The bill for the first sixteen days was $226, including board at $19 a day, laundry bill, and "incidentals," which term is sometimes made to cover a multitude of sins. If the government lawyers didn't make more than the star route thieves, it was because the trials didn't last as long as the star route contracts.

IF THE press is really and truly a power in the land—and who can doubt it?—young Nutt need have no fear as regards the outcome of his trial for killing Dukes, his father's murderer. Nutt's conduct is commended by nine-tenths of the newspapers, and it would be unsafe for a jury to convict the young man of murder in any degree. Sticklers for the literal application of the law fear that this setting aside of the forms of justice will have a bad effect upon society, in that it will encourage individuals to each become a law unto himself. The cause for alarm is gauzy indeed. It should be borne in mind that in the Dukes case the forms of law were followed closely, and the murderer was acquitted and turned loose upon society. Justice miscarried most shamefully. When lawlessness stepped in justice was done. Generally speaking, it is bad for individuals to "take the law into their own hands." This is the rule; but like all rules it has exceptions and the Nutt-Dukes case is one of them.

FOR Lame Back, Side or Chest use Shilo's Porous Plaster. Price 25c. Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Store.

"TRUSTEE," who signed a communication in Thursday's HERALD, evidently had not read—though he says he had—or did not understand the reply of the Commissioners to Superintendent Nuttall in regard to the election of school trustees next month. If the gentleman had comprehended the school law and the Commissioners' reply he could not have been in such doubt as he displays in his letter. "Trustee" must have been in the office long enough to have seen how one school election was conducted, who were judges, etc., and this being true, if his memory is not at fault and he will do on the proper day in July what he did a year ago next month, he will make no mistake. The school election law is one of the plainest statutes in our books, and it is the same now in every particular as it was a year ago. The people of the district meet on a certain day, previous notice having been given, for the election of one trustee, the hearing of the report by the trustees, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before them. Registered voters only can vote for trustee, and who are registered voters may be ascertained by application to the clerks of the respective counties. The meeting selects its own officers, judges, clerks, etc. In a word, the Edmunds law has not changed the school law in the slightest particular. If "Trustee" knew the law before he knows it now, and should proceed to act in accordance with his knowledge.

THERE SEEMS to be more in the adulterated lard cases that have been casually mentioned in our eastern telegrams lately than the dispatches would make it appear. Very clear and sweeping cases are being made out against Fowler Brothers, the pork packers of Chicago and Kansas City. In some instances the adulteration amounted to 25 per cent., and the adulterants used were cotton seed oil and mutton tallow. The difference in price between pure leaf lard and this stuff is 6c. per pound, amounting to between $5 and $6 on a barrel. The lard, or stuff so manufactured, has all the appearance of the genuine article, and is sold at the regular price to consumers, who are ignorant of its effects. A wholesale manufacturer of crackers and biscuits who unknowingly used some of the adulterated lard, says he found his goods, after a short time turned rancid, and they were returned to him by his customers. He had his lard analyzed, and it was found to contain 40 per cent. of cotton seed oil and tallow. He declared the slightest adulteration would tell on his goods. Fowler Brothers are not the only firm guilty of "doctoring" their lard. It is said to be next to impossible to obtain the pure article; manufacturers finding it so easy to put in cheap adulterants.

THE ATLANTA Constitution, perhaps the ablest and best newspaper in the south, is usually correct in matters treated upon in its columns, but it has ever been singularly ignorant or malicious in regard to the Mormons and their doctrines and practices. In the latest issue to hand of the Constitution is a leading editorial concerning the Mormon elders in the south. The article is full of bitterness and wicked libels, and closes as follows:

Before converts are received into the so-called "church" they are "baptized," and the rule is to strip them naked for that purpose. These naked baptisms occur at night, and the propagandists are supposed to have a good deal of fun on their own hook. In one county in North Carolina the emissaries had an adventure which they related to the newspaper man with great gusto. They saw two women boiling cotton in the field, approached and soon "converted" them. They then took them off to a creek, stripped them and "baptized" them. Next day the women left for Utah. Incidents of this sort are occurring all over the United States every day. What do the people propose to do about it?

If the editor of the Constitution doesn't know that the above story is a wicked lie, he is too ignorant to stand at the head of a great journal, and if he does know the story is false, ought he to edit a newspaper? If attacks upon the Mormons cannot be kept within the bounds of truth, they had best not be made, no matter from what standpoint one looks at the matter.

Just arrived, Brown Blue, Red Gray and White Home Made Yarns, all colors; Plain and Twilled Flannels, Men's and Boys' Socks, Children's and Ladies' Stockings; also a lot of Trunks. John C. Cutler, agent, No. 34 East Temple street.

WHILE SOME of the slayers of men in this country lately have not only escaped punishment but have been applauded by the public, it is not likely that this sort of thing can continue ad lib. The killers must at least have reasonable excuse for shooting, and not be like the North Carolinian who imagined there was some family honor to be protected, or avenged. He walked up to another, shotgun in hand, saying: "You have seduced my sister," banged away, and the alleged seducer dropped dead. So far so good, and public sentiment showed marked signs of condoning the killing. Now, however, comes the young lady in question, and makes solemn oath that the murdered man wronged her in no way whatever, and that her brother had no reasonable ground for believing her bad. This complicates matters and puts the hasty avenger of his sister's fancied wrongs into a box that he was not counting upon. He is likely to have trouble, even in North Carolina, where killing a man is not usually regarded as a serious affair.

TREAT THE HUMAN MACHINE GENTLY.

Neither Constipation, Colic, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, or other bowel complaints, can be cured by abusing the delicate machinery of the system with furious purgatives. The best and safest remedy, particularly at this season, is a teaspoonful of Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient, taken in a glass of water, which will gently relieve, while toning and healing the irritated intestine.
